

Federal Program Coordination

Title III provides resources to parents of students learning English as a second language. This includes educational resources such as translation services for all meetings and events.

Title II provides resources for teachers and staff to learn strategies and promote parental involvement within the school.

Title IX assists families in transition (FIT), including transportation, health, and social services to those in need.

IDEA assists parents who have students with special needs.

PARENT AND TEACHER CONFERENCES

Our teachers will host conferences to discuss student progress, and expectations and provide strategies to help students at home and our school.

We require that you commit to attending at least one parent conference per semester or as required by the teacher or requested by parents.

When parents and families are personally involved in education, their students can improve in school and become more successful in life.

Parents can:

Be a role model.

Provide a quiet place for task completion and monitoring.

Establish a daily family routine.

Encourage responsibility.

Stay in touch with the school.

Regularly visit the school, and talk to the teachers via phone or email.

Flexible Parent Meetings

We want all parents to have opportunities to get involved in Main Street High activities. We strive to schedule events and meetings on different days of the week and times of the day to give parents an opportunity to attend.

We know that many of our parents work and this is why we offer meetings and events before, during, and after school.

If you still cannot attend events in person, we can accommodate via Zoom or phone conversation.

Parent/Teacher Compact

Each year, we as our students, parents, and teachers complete a learning plan. This is a commitment that we will be all partners in the education process.

Translation Services

Main Street High has committed to provide opportunities for parental involvement. Translation services are available upon request for another language besides Spanish.

To request a translator other than Spanish, please send a note in your native language and we will respond as soon as possible. Also upon request, materials used in the meeting will be translated to ensure that parents can understand all written information.
